Irving based business owner Joe Hollman is opening up a language school in Vietnam. “Atlas Training Center” is scheduled to open November 2009. He bought the land and built the perfect design with the capacity to teach The English Language at all levels. Starting with the basics to business classes and offering scholarships to students.

In his many travels he has found a passion for Vietnam and wants to give back to the people. He has met some of the hardest working people here with the biggest desire to grow and learn. He would like to assist them with their education by offering English Classes at all levels.

We are currently seeking qualified teachers for Intern-type position including housing, travel & meal expense with option for full-time salary if preferred. The opportunity of a lifetime to educate and enhance the life of others.
