Community Music

at Texas Woman's University – Spring 2010

Classes and lessons begin the week of February 8, 2010.
Registration deadline is Tuesday, February 2, 2010.

Building skills for a lifetime.

At Texas Woman's University, community music students are given the opportunity to excel and receive outstanding instruction from highly qualified and experienced teachers. Music studies are geared towards each individual's desires and needs. Through the study of a musical instrument or voice, students can prepare for solo or ensemble performance opportunities, for auditions, or for personal enrichment. Our students gain a greater appreciation for a variety of musical styles and enhanced music skills to last a lifetime.

Offered by
Texas Woman's University
School of the Arts - Department of Music and Drama
Office of Lifelong Learning

Private Lessons Offered on:

- ▶ Piano
- ▶ Organ
- ▶ Guitar
- ▶ Clarinet
- ▶ Flute
- ▶ Voice
- ▶ Horn
- ▶ Trumpet
- ▶ Euphonium
- ▶ Trombone

How do I select a teacher?

Experience, teaching styles, and availability vary from instructor to instructor. Following registration, a music faculty member will contact you to discuss and arrange an instructor for you or your child.

Why should my child study at TWU?

Studying music in a school environment gives students access to a large, highly qualified faculty, exposure to students of all levels on a variety of instruments, opportunities to attend professional quality recitals and concerts for free, a chance to play for their friends and families in both formal and informal settings, facilities in a University setting, beautiful campus, and a historic building. Quality teachers are selected by the TWU music department faculty.

Printed Music Purchases

Various printed music (scores), method books, and/or textbooks will be required for lessons and classes. Individual instructors will provide you with information about these materials prior to, or at the first lesson or class meeting. Students are expected to purchase printed music and will not be allowed to use library copies for everyday use. Many inexpensive editions exist and your instructor will help offer suggestions as to where to purchase materials. Instructors will not provide photo-copied materials as it is against Copyright Law.
