" West of the Pecos" is an original adaptation of Zane Grey's romantic western novel that takes place ten years after the civil war. It is Grey's take on Shakespeare's "As You Like It" and will be presented as a pantomimic cowboy bal-let in a dinner theatre setting. It is a silent film western, come to life, with original music and songs from Texas Woman's University's music faculty member Joe Pinson. If you loved Saturday morning western double features as a child, this is sure to be one of your favorite theatrical experiences of the year.
