

Texas Woman's University

William Randolph Hearst Endowment for Student Parents

The William Randolph Hearst Foundation of San Francisco, California established the William Randolph Hearst Endowment for Student Parents to assist students with their educational expenses at Texas Woman's University (TWU). Special emphasis will be given to single parents intending to reside in the United States upon completion of their studies. Assistance provided is temporary, and for unexpected emergency situations. Expenses may include living expenses, health care, childcare, and other related costs. A student is eligible to receive assistance once in a given semester. A selection committee will meet on a regular basis to evaluate applications.

Eligible applicants must complete the attached application and meet the following criteria:

- Enroll for a least six credit hours during the application period
- Recognize priority is given to single parents with dependent children
- Have a minimum 2.5 cumulative grade point average (GPA)
- Use the funds for educational costs at TWU, which may include living expenses, health care, and childcare
- Reside in the United States upon completion of their studies

Please type or print clearly on the application. Submit completed application to:
