PROGRAMS IN DANCE WELCOME NATIONAL CONFERENCE

The international Congress on Research in Dance will hold its annual conference at TWU on Thurs.-Sat., Nov. 3-6. The conference theme, "Engendering Dance, Engendering Knowledge: Dance, Gender and Interdisciplinary Dialogues in the Arts," will be addressed by more than 70 presenters from the United States and other nations, including England, Japan, Australia and Taiwan. Artists, educators and researchers will discuss gender and its impact on dance from many perspectives, including aesthetics, art making, criticism, cultural anthropology, curriculum theory, history, popular culture and somatics.

Among the keynote speakers is Dr. Anya Peterson Royce, professor of anthropology in Dedman College, professor of dance in the Meadows School of the Arts, and provost and vice president for academic affairs at Southern Methodist University. Royce, author of The Anthropology of Dance, will speak at the Saturday banquet.

Other keynote speakers will include Dr. Caroline Brettell, professor of anthropology and director of women's studies at SMU; Dr. Ann Daly, dance critic and historian; David Rousseve, artistic director and choreographer for David Rousseve/Reality; Dr. Sue Stinson, dance educator and the 1994 National Dance Association Scholar; and Sondra Horton Fraleigh, a dancer, choreographer and writer known for her work in dance aesthetics. Session topics will include images of women in African and African-American dance, feminist theory and dance performance, dance education and gender in Japan, women choreographers on the Broadway stage, gender in contemporary dance, an integrated approach to writing and dance, military maids and the USO, pregnancy dances as feminist discourse, and self-perceptions of male and female dancers in performance.

Registration for the entire conference is $150 for CORD members and $155 for non-members. One-day registration is $59 for Fri., Nov. 4, including lunch and dinner, and $51 for Sat., Nov. 5, including lunch. One-day student registration is $19 for Friday and $11 for Saturday, including meals. Tickets also are available for the Saturday banquet featuring Anya Peterson Royce for $15. For more information about the program or registration, call ext. 2085. Sondra Horton Fraleigh will lead a pre-conference workshop on Thurs., Nov. 3, titled "Witnessing the Frog Pond." Registration is $35, and enrollment is limited.

The conference committee is chaired by Dr. Penelope Hanstein (performing arts-dance) and Kim Grover-Haskin (Blagg-Huey Library, special collections), a doctoral student in dance. Also serving on the conference committee are Dr. Janice LaPointe-Crump (performing arts-dance) and Tana Kearns (conference services).

TWU faculty are invited to attend plenary sessions on Fri., Nov. 4, or Sat., Nov. 5. The Friday sessions are scheduled at 9 a.m. and 3:45 p.m. in ASB 300 with Ann Cooper Albright of Oberlin College and a graduate research award panel, respectively -- Uttara Asha Coorlawala, New York University; Julia Foulkes, University of Massachusetts, Amherst; and Purnima Shah, University of Wisconsin, Madison. The Saturday plenary session, from 9 to 11 a.m. in ASB 300, will feature the keynote panel of Daly, Rousseve and Stinson.

OT WELCOMES PARTICIPANTS FOR VANDERKOOI LECTURE

Adaptation and action are key elements that occupational therapists use to help their clients lead lives that provide fulfillment within their individual capabilities. Designing a therapy plan that meets the specific needs of each patient is an exciting challenge for OTs, who can choose more effective methods when they understand and analyze factors that motivate the persons they treat. A one-day program for occupational therapists that will explore the why, when and how of daily activities and their effects on clients will be presented by the TWU School of Occupational Therapy on Sat., Nov. 5.

Titled "The Doing Self: Practical Approaches to Understanding Why, When and How Daily Activities Influence Well-Being," TWU's second annual Fanny B. Vanderkooi Endowed Lectureship will feature guest speaker Dr. Charles H. Christiansen, formerly a practicing OT and currently dean of the School of Allied Health Sciences at the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston. The workshop will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the TWU Institute of Health Sciences Dallas Center adjacent to Presbyterian Hospital, at 8194 Walnut Hill Lane in Dallas.

Registration is $95 per person. Conference fees include instruction, materials and refreshments. For additional information or registration, call the TWU office of continuing education at ext. 3408.

Based on research in psychology, sociology, anthropology and related sciences, the workshop will present methods for gathering information that can be used to build an occupational profile of clients and patients. This type of occupational profile can be use for understanding what truly motivates people to engage in certain activities, for identifying problem areas within a person's characteristic lifestyle and activity patterns, and for recommending activity-based intervention strategies that will be most therapeutic.

The workshop is suitable for practicing therapists who work with adolescents and adults, as well as educators, students, vocational counselors and others who want to understand their patients better and, as a result, improve their effectiveness as professionals. Participants will learn more about:

- How people typically organize their lives and how this is influenced by biological and psychological factors;
- How biological clocks influence activity adaptation and can pose safety risks or diminish the value of therapy;
- How difference activity patterns have been shown to influence stress; and
- How activity choice is influenced by social factors and why it is closely linked to self-identity.

Guest speaker Christiansen has held faculty appointments at TWU, UT Health Science Centers at Galveston and San Antonio and the University of British Columbia. An educator and administrator, he is a consultant and editor of Ways of Living: Self-Care Strategies for Special Needs, a new book for the practitioner which focuses on self-care management in rehabilitation. He was founding editor of the Occupational Therapy Journal of Research and has published more than 50 chapters, articles and abstracts.

FRIENDS OF LIBRARY ANNOUNCES THOMPSON LECTURESHIP

The Friends of the TWU Libraries invite faculty, staff, students and members of the community to attend the fourth annual Joyce Thompson Lecture on Tues., Nov. 1, at 2:30 p.m. in MCL auditorium. This free event will feature speaker Dr. Noel Polk, a professor in the department of English at the University of Southern Mississippi, who will discuss "Faulkner and Mississippi." For more information, call Elizabeth Snapp (library) at ext. 3748.

Polk, advisory editor for the Faulkner Journal, is the editor of many William Faulkner texts, including The Sound and the Fury, Sanctuary, Absalom! Absalom!, Pylon, Intruder in the Dust, Requiem for a Nun, As I Lay Dying and Light in August. He is one of four editors of the 44-volume facsimile edition of the William Faulkner Manuscripts, and his concordances to Faulkner's works include Requiem for a Nun, The Sound and the Fury, Intruder in the Dust and The Town. He is the author of two books: William Faulkner's "Requiem for a Nun": A Critical Study and An Editorial Handbook to Faulkner's "The Sound and the Fury."

The Joyce Thompson lectureship series, begun in 1991, honors the memory of Dr. Joyce Thompson, professor of English at TWU from 1977 to 1992 and author of the university's history, Marking A Trail: A History of the Texas Woman's University. She also wrote Ladies' First: A Miscellany, published more than 30 articles and delivered a large number of papers at scholarly and professional meetings.

Thompson earned her bachelor's degree in mathematics from TWU, and her master's and doctoral degrees in English from Texas Tech University. Her areas of academic specialization were American literature and women's studies. She also suggested a quotation from Edith Hamilton that was used as the inscription on a bronze dedication plaque for the university's Blagg-Huey Library: "To be able to be caught up into the world of thought -- that is to be educated."

WHO'S WHO SEEKS NOMINEES

Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges has invited the nation's institutions of higher education to nominate students for 1994-95 edition of their publication. Gary Washmon (visual arts) is accepting nominations and can provide appropriate forms; the deadline for nominations is Nov. 25, 1994. Contact Washmon at ext. 2530 for more information or nomination forms. Selection criteria are listed below:

- The nominee must be a full-time undergraduate or graduate student who intends to graduate before September 1995.
- The nominee must have a minimum grade point average of 3.25; lower GPAs will be considered in special cases of service, artistic merit, etc.
- In addition to scholastic ability, the nominee should exhibit leadership and participation in academia and extracurricular activities, good citizenship, services to the university and the community, and have potential for future achievement in personal, professional and academic endeavors.
- The nomination of a graduate student should include more detailed information concerning academic and scholarly achievements than the nomination of an undergraduate. Additional testimony is needed for the selection committee to evaluate the contributions of a graduate student.

GUERRILLA GIRLS VISIT GALLERY

The East and West Galleries of the TWU Art Building will be filled with women's art, each from a unique perspective, Nov. 7-23. "The Visual Diary," featuring an exhibition of the work of women photographers, video and book artists, will be displayed in the West Fine Arts Gallery; it draws upon the tradition of the written diary to create visual texts exploring the relationship between personal identity, family and society.

In the East Fine Arts Gallery, "Guerrilla Girls Talk Back: A Retrospective 1985-1990" will be displayed and a free lecture by the "Guerrilla Girls" will be held on Sun., Nov. 6, at 5 p.m. in MCL. This exhibit is sponsored by the Federation of North Texas Area Universities, the TWU department of visual arts, the TWU department of sociology and social work/women's studies committee, WAVE, Denton NOW and the Dallas Women's Caucus for the Arts.

Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. The exhibits are free and open to the public. For details, call the department of visual arts at ext. 2530.

MBRS LECTURE ANNOUNCED

The Minority Biomedical Research Support Program at TWU will present its annual symposium on Fri., Oct. 28. The program, which will feature research findings from student projects, will be held on the second floor of CFO from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The TWU MBRS program is funded by the National Institutes of Health and provides research support for minority students who wish to pursue research careers in the biomedical sciences.

Registration begins at 9 a.m., and student platform (oral) presentations will be held in CFO 205 from 10 to 11:45 a.m. Student poster presentations are scheduled on the second floor of CFO from 1:30 to 3 p.m., and the keynote session will be held from 3 to 4:30 p.m. in CFO 205. Following a welcome from MBRS students, featured speaker Dr. Cheryl L. Rowe-Rendleman will discuss "Neurotransmitters play a special role during development of the central nervous system: gamma aminobutyric acid in the rabbit retina."

Rowe-Rendleton is a postdoctoral research fellow studying retina cell biology in the department of neurobiology and anatomy at the University of Texas Medical School at Houston. She holds a doctorate in biochemical and biophysical sciences from the University of Houston and a bachelor's degree in neurobiology from Princeton University.

For more information, call the TWU MBRS office at ext. 3328.

STATE CHARITABLE CAMPAIGN REMINDER

The 1994 State Employees Charitable Campaign "Together We Care" continues through Oct. 25 (for detailed information, see the Oct. 17 issue of Update). Created by the Texas Legislature, this first-ever SECC is a combined workplace campaign that provides state employees with a convenient and efficient way to make voluntary, tax-deductible contributions to a variety of local and state charities (including United Way) through payroll deduction, cash or check.

Pledge forms should be returned to account supervisors (representatives in each department or office who are coordinating the effort) by Tuesday. Anyone who has questions should talk to her or his department's designated campaign representative or contact Mary Ann McDuff (academic affairs), the Denton campus campaign coordinator at ext. 3310.

Reminder: This is the final week that the TWU Wellness Center asks all faculty, staff and students to participate in a food drive to help the Denton Community Food Center. All donations will be collected at the front desk of the Wellness Center; shopping bags with a list of items for contribution can be picked up there. For details or to volunteer at the food center, call Julie Jordening ext. 2900 or Kathy Jankowski (Center for Research on Women's Health) at ext. 2591.

Reminder: An account has been opened at Texas Bank in Denton to help Kristie Chauncey (mail room) and her husband, Jim, following the Sept. 28 birth of their son, Andrew Robert. Andrew continues his stay in Cook-Fort Worth Children's Hospital (see "People," TWU Update, Oct. 10) for several more weeks. Jim's employer, Safety Kleen, opened the account this week. Interested TWU employees who would like to help Kristie and Jim can visit the bank, or they can leave donations with Gail Parr in the office of public information (ACT 2); Gail will forward monies collected on campus to the account at Texas Bank for the family. Additional activities to help the Chaunceys are under discussion; details will be announced in Update when they are finalized. Anyone who would like to mail in a donation should send it to: The Andrew Chauncey Fund, Texas Bank, 729 Fort Worth Dr., Denton TX 76201.

Two new Minolta microfiche/microfilm reader/printers have been purchased by the TWU Blagg-Huey Library and are available for use by library patrons in the reference section. Easier to use and more efficient than other readers, the new equipment requires the use of copy cards, which are available at the circulation desk. The two coin-operated reader/printers (which the new Minolta equipment replaces) are located in the special collections area.

Oops! -- The Personnel Transaction Form (PTF) and Information Program listed in last week's calendar in Update is scheduled on Oct. 26 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. on ACT 501 (not Oct. 25, as printed). For more information, contact Tony Crowe (human resources) at ext. 3555.

The Alpha Sigma chapter of Pi Lambda Theta has provided a $250 scholarship for the fall 1994 semester to Diana Freeman, a doctoral candidate in the department of reading and bilingual education. The chapter also has contributed a second $250 scholarship that will be awarded for the spring 1995 semester. "This group is deeply committed to TWU since most of its members are TWU alumni," said Dr. Rudy Rodriguez (reading and bilingual education). "The scholarships are a demonstration of their commitment to TWU and education." Freeman works as a graduate research assistant in the Reading Recovery office. Pi Lambda Theta is an international honor and professional association in education.

UPDATE ON TWU PEOPLE

Sympathy is expressed to Bob McCullough (public safety) and his wife, Barbara (bookstore), on the death of Bob's brother, Lloyd, on Sept. 29. Services were held in Dallas Oct. 3.

Kathy Millay (communication sciences and disorders) presented a seminar on "Basic Speech Therapy for Cleft Palate Patients" at the Fort Worth Cleft Palate Program on Oct. 6.

A management book by Dr. Connie Sitterly (business and economics) has been published in Spanish titled La Mujer Ejecutiva, Como desarrollar las habilidades esenciales para el exito. The book is currently being distributed throughout Mexico. Sitterly, an adjunct professor (business and economics) since 1986, is responsible for several women-in-business short courses that TWU offers on the weekends. She also is a consultant who conducts workshops throughout the United States and Mexico. The Ridglea Business and Professional Women's Club recently named Sitterly as Outstanding Business Woman for her continuing efforts to "help women move up and maximize opportunities in the workplace." She will be recognized during a special dinner at the Ridglea Country Club in Fort Worth at 7 p.m. on Tues., Oct. 25.

Dr. Stan Ivie (educational leadership) presented a paper titled "Metaphors: Tolls for Critical Thinking" to the American Association for Teaching and Curriculum conference held at the Plaza of the Americas Hotel in Dallas Oct. 14-15. The paper explored the idea that a metaphorical structure underlies the patterning of human thought and that critical thinking is a matter of becoming aware of this structure.

Drs. Judith McFarlane and Connie Silva (Nursing, Houston) presented research and information on protocols of care for pregnant abused women to physicians and nurses at the University of Morales in Cuernavaca, Mexico, Oct. 2-8. In addition, collaborative research efforts were initiated on issues of violence against women.

On Oct. 20, Mc Farlane presented recent research findings from her Centers for Disease Control grant on prevention of abuse to nurse practitioners at the annual Nurse Practitioner Conference in San Antonio. McFarlane will travel to the annual American Public Health Association international conference in Washington D.C. from Oct. 31 to Nov. 2, where she will present research findings on abuse during pregnancy and program evaluation information on De Madres a Madres.

Faculty, alumnae and students from the department of health studies attended annual meetings of the American School Health Association and the Eta Sigma Gamma (health education) Honor Society in Houston Oct. 6-10. Presentations were made by the following faculty, students and alumni: "The Challenges of Multicultural Issues and At-Risk Children," Drs. Susan Ward and J. Terry Parker, with doctoral students Mary Walker-Shaw and Beverly Tremain; "Are Rural Adolescents At Risk?" by Ward and alumna Leigh Dickens; and "A Violence Prevention Program -- The Dallas Model," by alumni Drs. Marsha Prophet and Phyllis Simpson.

The TWU Alpha Phi Chapter received the 1994 National Chapter of the Year Award during the Eta Sigma Gamma meeting. Dr. Bill Cissell, Betsy Tandy and Ward are the chapter's advisors. Janet Destefano-Hurley, 1994 TWU Outstanding Senior, who served as chapter president, and Nora Jacoby, who served as chapter treasurer, contributed to this achievement.
