

GOOD NEWS MARKS GREAT STRIDES!

Several academic programs at TWU recently received recognition either statewide or nationally for student achievements and quality. A list is provided below.

- School of Occupational Therapy -- The Princeton Review has rated TWU's School of Occupational Therapy among the best distance learning graduate schools in the United States. TWU's OT programs were profiled among the top 195 accredited graduate schools in the country.
- Bachelor's and doctoral programs -- In Taking Women Seriously, issued by the American Council on Education and printed by Oryx Press this year, has recognized TWU twice for producing Who's Who leaders in the U.S.....The university is among the top 10 baccalaureate institutions and doctoral institutions producing Latinas in Who's Who. The top 10 baccalaureate institutions, in alphabetical order are: Barnard College, Barry University, Bryn Mawr College, Incarnate Word College, University of Miami, New Mexico Highlands, Our Lady of the Lake University, Pomona College, Texas A&I University and TWU. The top 10 doctoral institutions are Barnard College, Barry University, Bryn Mawr College, Incarnate Word College, University of Miami, Our Lady of the Lake University, Pomona College, Texas A&I University, TWU and the University of Texas-Pan American.
- College of Nursing -- In January, the Board of Nurse Examiners for the State of Texas has granted continuation of full accreditation for TWU's nursing program. The board commended TWU faculty and administration for the performance of graduates on the NCLEX-RN examination for the 1998 examination year and also congratulated the program for obtaining continuing NLNAC accreditation until 2005. Also....The Texas Department of Health Breast and Cervical Cancer Control Program recognized TWU CARES Health Center with the Milestone Award during the first quarter of 1999. The award recognizes organizations that provided mammograms to the highest portion of women ages 50 to 64. TWU, a "small provider," won its category with 100 percent; the medium and large providers recognized were South Texas Hospital-Harlingen with 100 percent and Planned Parenthood of Cameron and Willacy Counties-

Harlingen with 93 percent.

STOP-A-COP PROGRAM DECLARED A SUCCESS

TWU's "Stop-A-Cop" program, introduced last fall to help students, faculty and staff meet members of the department of public safety, was a success, according to John Erwin (public safety), who coordinated the effort with the TWU bookstore, which supplied prizes and underwrote the cost of the series of 18 trading cards. The popular four-color cards were collected through January and could only be obtained from officers by faculty, staff and students on request. Plans for a new series of cards each fall is under way. The winners and their prizes are: Tawie Bayer and Angela Vrana, first place, TWU sweatshirts; Corrie Maddon and Darlene Ferguson, second place, $25 gift certificates to Barnes and Noble Bookstores; and Gabriela Ruanova and Susan Phillips, third place, TWU mugs.

COME TO TOWN

The TWU women's studies program and department of kinesiology are striving to organize a TOWN -- Texas Outdoor Women's Network -- as part of a joint course titled "Women in the Wilderness" this spring. "TOWNs provide opportunities for women, their friends and families to enjoy outdoor recreation in a variety of activities," said Dr. Brenda Phillips (sociology and social work/women's studies). "As part of our course, we have invited a representative from Texas Parks and Wildlife to help us initiate a TOWN."

Debbie Bunch, program director for TOWN -- and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Division's "Becoming an Outdoor Woman" -- will visit TWU on Wed., Feb. 10, at 7 p.m. in room 203 of Pioneer Hall. The campus community and the general public are invited to attend. "If you've always wanted to grab a backpack and head for Big Bend, paddle a kayak along the Lampasas River, ride horseback through the Hill Country, and photograph or watch wildlife in their natural habitat, then join us Wednesday," added Phillips, "and you'll probably meet others with similar interests, too." For details, call Phillips at 8-1-2117.

GO AHEAD...EAT MY DUST! (OR A TIRE...OR AN AXLE!)

It's that time again...when enquiring minds want to know, mechanical minds want to build and curious onlookers want to cheer them on -- "they" are racers in TWU's annual edible car contest during Engineering Week! The contest, scheduled Fri., March 5, pits mind over matter, angle with engineering and determination with imagination. Held for the first time last year, TWU's edible car contest involves designing, building and racing cars made from edible materials. The event, sponsored by Raytheon and the TWU department of mathematics and computer science, brings creativity, science and teamwork together with fun and learning in mind.

The contest will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., SC 207-208, including an awards luncheon; all car entries must be submitted to the judges by team members between 9 and 9:30 a.m. at that location. The registration deadline for a team to submit paperwork is Wed., Feb. 24; forms must be delivered to CFO 809 by 5 p.m. on that date or faxed to the department of mathematics and computer science at 8-1-2179. (Cancellations by March 2, please -- if necessary; no registration fee.) For details, call Dr. Frances Thompson at 8-1-2157 or 8-1-2166.

For aspiring racers, the rules are: each team must comprise three students -- at least one female student per team -- or university teams must have at least two TWU students. The team members will design and build a car using only edible materials (either raw or cooked/prepared foods -- but all foods must be edible for humans!). The final car must "look like" a car and may not exceed the following dimension: four inches wide (including wheels and hubcaps); four inches tall (including windshield, car roof, people, etc.); and 12 inches long (including front and rear bumpers and any other extensions). The car must operate on four rotating "wheels" and roll successfully down a ramp that is eight to 10 feet long and is inclined at an angle of about 20 degrees. (The car must be able to survive three runs down the ramp, if necessary.) The total cost for materials used to build the car should be estimated at less than $10.

Judging will be done in three categories for the top three scoring teams: engineering design -- for correct size, total edible structure, variety of materials, rotating wheels, effective axle design and durability; creativity -- for the use of car accessories and attachments, overall attractiveness and degree of creativity; and speed down incline. Prizes will be presented at the awards luncheon.

SPRING "BRAKE" -- STOP TO LEND A HAND

Spring break, to many, means time to rest, relax and recuperate...so how can work play a part in TWU's spring break this year? An alternative proposed by TWU Helping Hands and the Center for Student Development will provide an opportunity for students to visit the Texas Hill Country and learn about volunteer and community service. The trip is scheduled March 12 to 18 and the cost is $70 per person, which helps pay for transportation, groceries purchased for group meals, plus expenses associated with an incentive activity on the last day of the trip. A deposit of $25 (check or money order) is required by 5 p.m. on Fri., Feb. 19; no refunds on deposits will be made after that date. TWU staff and faculty -- or students, faculty and staff from other institutions -- may participate on a space-available basis. Contact Howard Green (student development) prior to the Feb. 19 deadline with inquiries at 8-1-3593 or e-mail him at HGreen@twu.edu.

"Our alternative spring break will give students a chance to help others," explained Green. "When we travel to the Hill Country, we first will stay overnight at Heart 'O the Hills Camp at the invitation of our alumna, Jane Ragsdale, who operates the camp. (Her mother, Cathy Ragsdale, owns the camp and is a TWU distinguished alumna). "We are grateful for their support and look forward to our Sunday-night visit. Then we have a really busy -- but rewarding -- week in store. Our students voted on the geographic area that they wanted to visit, and then we set out to find community organizations that need help with projects this spring."

On Friday and Saturday, participants will stay in separate bunkhouse accommodations for women and men at the Texas Lions Camp; on Saturday, they will help Texas Lions Camp staff celebrate 50 years of service to the state's children. On Sunday, TWU students -- with members of Salvation Army visitation teams -- will socialize with and encourage patients and clients from area hospitals. On Monday, they will accompany underprivileged youth from Salvation Army boys and girls organizations to a major area attraction (either in San Antonio or Austin). They then will spend two days (Tuesday and Wednesday) building erosion dams on park trails in the Hill Country State Natural Area near Bandera. On Wednesday afternoon, participants also will accompany patients from Kerrville State Hospital to a St. Patrick's Day party on the grounds.

"The primary goals of TWU's alternative spring break trip this year are to demonstrate the meaning and impact of volunteer or community service and to have fun with other participants," added Green. "We urged everyone to sign up now!" (Note: Participants also should plan to bring $50 for on-the-road meal expenses, plus additional money for souvenirs and other personal expenses. They also need to bring a bedroll with two blankets, sheets -- or a moderate sleeping bag, and pillow; bath towels and washcloths; and soap, shampoo and other toiletries.)

TMC OFFERS HOUSTON PROGRAM

A workshop for faculty and staff in Houston will be offered by the Texas Medical Center on Wed., March 3, from 3 to 5 p.m. in Sammons Auditorium in the Jesse H. Jones Library Building (3rd floor). The seminar, titled "Organizing Your Results: When and How to Use Tables and Figures," will be taught by Dr. Lorraine M. Cherry, president and founder of "Communicate" -- a Houston company that specializes in biomedical communication. Registration for the guest workshop is $35 for faculty, staff, residents and post-doctoral students; TMC-affiliated student registration is only $10. Fees may be charged to departmental or grant accounts, and registration forms are available online at www.library.tmc.edu/workform.html or in the library.

The workshop will provide participants with specific "how to" instructions for turning data into tables and figures that effectively communicate findings. Topics include: when to use figures or tables; what kinds of information should be placed in columns or in rows; how to footnote properly; how to make tables "stand alone"; how much data to include in tables; when to use different types of figures; how to properly size figures; and how to keep things simple -- don't mislead the reader. Cherry, who holds a doctorate in genetics from the University of California at Berkeley, has more than 20 years of experience in biomedical writing and publishing, including 15 years as a faculty member with the University of Texas; she also is a board member with the American Medical Writers Association.

NEWSBRIEFS

Information and news about activities, programs or TWU people may be sent to Ann Hatch (public information), editor, either through campus mail or by e-mail to s_hatch@twu.edu. The weekly deadline to receive information is Tuesday at 5 p.m. for the following week. Student information for the "People" section is not published unless it is submitted by or in conjunction with a faculty member and that faculty member's related activities.

A master campus calendar now is online for the TWU community (and beyond) at www.twu.edu/calendar/ -- send submissions, changes and additions to JSweet@twu.edu. The calendar will focus on activities, lectures and events in Denton, Dallas and Houston.

Reminder: In celebration of Black History Month, TWU will host a number of activities throughout February. Events open to the public include:

- Georgia Sea Island Singers -- A free concert of songs, games and storytelling will be presented by the Georgia Sea Island Singers on Mon., Feb. 8, at 7:30 p.m., MJPH. Doug and Frankie Quimby also will conduct free master classes at 9:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Tues., Feb. 9, in MCL. For details, call Karen Mongo (English, speech and foreign languages) at 8-1-2327.

- Poetry Night -- Free program of poetry featuring Dallas group OIL (Ordained in Lyrics) on Wed., Feb. 10, from 7 to 10 p.m., HH.
- Fantabulous Night of Jazz -- Free music on Thurs., Feb. 18, 7 to 9 p.m., SC 207/208.
- Soul Food Night -- Thurs., Feb. 25, from 7 to 9 p.m., SC Underground. Tickets: $5.
- Students only -- The second student-only event scheduled is a trip to the African-American Museum at Fair Park on Fri., Feb. 19.

A limited number of directories -- TWU's Faculty/Staff Telephone Listing by Department, 1998-1999 -- is available in the office of public information, ACT 2. Call Johnna Sweet at 8-1-3456 to request additional copies.

Reminder: Since 1984, TWU has been striving to help its students become pioneers in athletics, scholarship and citizenship through the Pioneer Athletic Scholarship Campaign, which begins with a kick-off breakfast on Tues., Feb. 9, at 7:30 a.m., in Magee Arena (PH). This year's goal is $80,000, and every dollar raised goes directly to scholarships. The Pioneer Athletic Scholarship Campaign runs eight days (Tuesday to Tuesday), Feb. 9 to 16. For details, call Ann Tubbs (institutional advancement) at 8-1-3863.

A program titled "Microsoft Excel 97 Intermediate Users Training" will be offered to faculty and staff by information technology services on Fri., Feb. 12, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., SH 307. Seating is limited; interested persons should make reservations by calling 8-1-3249 or send an e-mail message to CAT@twu.edu -- include a name and telephone number.

Reminder: The TWU office of financial aid will kick off the 1999-2000 financial aid application year with "curb-side service" the week of Feb. 8 to 12 so that staff members may hand out 1999-2000 academic scholarship and financial aid applications. The schedule is listed below:

- Denton -- Mon, Feb. 8: SC 2, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and Jones and Guinn halls (lobby), 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.; Tues., Feb. 9: MCL 1, 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.; and Guinn and Stark lobbies, 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.; Wed. Feb. 10: CFO 1, 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.; Thurs., Feb. 11: ASB 1, 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m. An open house also will be hosted by Denton staff members from financial aid on Wed., Feb. 10, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. (ADM 1). TWU faculty and staff are invited; student lending representatives and financial aid staff members, will talk to students.

- Dallas -- A workshop for students at the TWU Institute of Health Sciences Dallas Center-Parkland will be held on Tues., Feb. 9, from noon to 1 p.m., FPH 108.

A series of leadership panels sponsored by the Center for Student Development will be held throughout the spring semester for interested students, faculty and staff. Presented by members of the Executive Women of Dallas, the program panels are free and open to the campus community. For details, call the center at 8-1-3626. The schedule includes:

- Feb. 9 -- "How to Balance Your Life," SC 105, 12:15 p.m.
- Feb. 17 -- "What Do People Look for in a Resume," SC 105, 5 p.m.
- March 10 -- "What's It Like in the Real World," SC 105, 3 p.m.
- March 22 -- "How I Used My Education to be Successful," SC 105, 4 p.m.
- April 7 -- "Entrepreneurship," SC 105, 12:15 p.m.

Reminder: TWU will present a distance learning software fair on Thurs. and Fri., Feb. 11 and 12, in Houston the first day and Denton the second, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Seven vendors will participate: HyperGraphics, Blackboard, Convene, Embanet, TopClass, WebCT and Web Course in a Box. Each vendor will make 20-minute presentations (one in the morning and one in the afternoon); come-and-go product demonstrations will be offered during the remainder of the fair each day. All interested faculty and staff are encouraged to attend. In Houston, programs and demonstrations will be held in the MGJ 10th floor lab on Feb. 11. In Denton, programs and demonstrations will be held on ACT 6 on Feb. 12.

Reminder: The department of kinesiology at TWU will host an adapted physical education doctoral seminar during February, and the second of two speakers will share her expertise with students and faculty. Dr. Dawn Bridges, assistant professor at the University of California at Los Angeles, will visit TWU on Feb. 26 and 27. "Dr. Bridges brings a wealth of experience working with severely/profoundly involved children in a variety of educational settings," said Dr. Jean Pyfer (Health Sciences). "She also brings to TWU her unique background and perspectives as a female, African-American educator." For details, call Dr. Carol Huettig (kinesiology), Project INSPIRE grant coordinator, at 8-1-2584 or contact her at f_Huettig@twu.edu.

Volunteer readers are needed by the office of disability support services. Persons interested in recording materials on cassette tapes for students who are blind or dyslexic are being recruited by DSS. Interested individuals should call 8-1-3835.

Alexandria's Ragtime Band will perform at Trinity United Methodist Church on Sun., Feb. 14. Several members of the group also will play for jazz mass services at 8:30, 9:30 and 10:50 a.m. The band will perform during the church's "Fat Tuesday" luncheon at 12:15 p.m.

Reminder: The TWU Intercollegiate Athletics Hall of Fame selection committee has extended the deadline to submit names to March 1, 1999, for its 5th class of inductees. The TWU Hall of Fame was established as a vehicle to recognize and honor former student-athletes, coaches, administrators and others who have excelled as representatives of the university and who have brought honor to the athletics program. Induction into the hall emphasizes excellence in athletics, coupled with sportsmanship, character and integrity. Anyone may submit a letter of recommendation to: Hall of Fame Selection Committee, TWU Intercollegiate Athletics, P.O. Box 425349, Denton TX 76204-5349. Information about nominees may be faxed to (940) 898-2372.

"Honors at TWU" is the topic of study for a new focus group established by Dr. Suzann Buckley (Arts and Sciences). The group is discussing all aspects of the subject -- from encouraging individual instructors to offer honors certificates who do extra work in regular courses to developing more honors courses and programs. The focus group invites public comment on all aspects of this subject in a special electronic forum by the same title. Select "forums" from the TWU intranet's front page. For details, call Dr. Stephen Souris (English, speech and foreign languages) at 8-1-2324.

Reminder: The TWU Wellness Center will present "Partner Massage" on Wed., Feb. 10, from 6 to 8 p. m. in the center. The cost is $10 per person or $15 for two. Instructors (professional massage therapists) will teach participants the basics about massage -- the safe and correct way to give a massage and how to receive one. For details, call 8-1-2900.

A Saturday visit for prospective students will be held on Feb. 13 from 9 a.m. to noon, ADM 1, hosted by the office of undergraduate admissions. The program includes a welcome and campus overview, financial aid session and campus tour. Call 8-1-3014 for details.

Reminder: For the second year in a row, more than 1,000 drama students, drama instructors and fans of live theater will converge on TWU's main campus from Feb. 23 to 28 to attend the regional competition of the 31st annual Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival. Charles Harrill once again will serve as festival host, and TWU will be represented this year by Waiting for the Parade. All full-length productions will be staged in Margo Jones Performance Hall; the two one-act, student-written plays, will be performed in Redbud Theatre. For more information, call 8-1-2500. Ticket prices for the festival are:

- Individual performance -- $7 for the general public; $5 for non-TWU students, faculty, staff and senior citizens; free for TWU students with valid identification.
- Packages (4 of 9 shows) -- $21 for the general public; $15 for non-TWU students, faculty, staff and senior citizens.

- Packages (all 9 shows) -- $40 for the general public; $30 for non-TWU students, faculty, staff and senior citizens.

UPDATE ON TWU PEOPLE

Please submit "People" items (faculty and staff only) to Ann Hatch in public information by campus mail or by e-mail to s_hatch@twu.edu! Include first and last names (no initials, please) and appropriate titles (ie. Dr.).

Dr. Rudy Rodriguez (community relations and diversity) recently announced that a TWU graduate in reading and bilingual education, Maria Guadalupe Ramos, was named 1999 Bilingual Teacher of the Year by the National Association for Bilingual Education. Ramos, who earned her bachelor's degree and teacher certification from TWU, teaches at Harris Elementary School (Austin).

Patty Dowdell (kinesiology) will be a featured speaker at the 19th annual Krost Symposium on Feb. 11 and 12 at Texas Lutheran University. The theme for this year's seminar is "The Role of Sports in Society," and Dowdell will discuss "Olympic Experiences and Observations" during the Friday noon session. The TWU volleyball coach is a 1980 Olympian and was team captain of the U.S. volleyball team; she also participated in the 1996 Olympic Torch Relay in Houston. Other speakers participating include Dr. Donna Lopiano, executive director of the Women's Sports Foundation; Dr. Jim Wacker, director of athletics at Southwest Texas State University and former head football coach; and Dr. Michael Smith, associate professor in the department of psychology at the University of North Texas Health Science Center in Fort Worth.

Dr. Patricia Jackson (information technology services) was a presenter and panel member at the annual conference of the Association for Library and Information Science Education on Jan. 26. She discussed "Student Perceptions and Issues in Distance Education."

Corky Stuckenbruck (visual arts) continues her exhibit titled "Cradle to Grave: Works by Corky Stuckenbruck" through Feb. 12 in the East Gallery of the Denton Center for Visual Arts, 400 East Hickory. An artist's reception was held Jan. 29; gallery hours are 1 to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday, and 1 to 7 p.m. on Saturday.

Sympathy is extended to Carolyn Barnes (public information) and her family, following the death of her mother, Margie Noneman, on Jan. 27. Funeral services were held in Denton.
