Scholarly Works in Progress

Have agreed to the lead role in readying MOT student professional paper (chaired by Dr. Hersch) called Influence of Spirituality on the Transition of Older Adults into a Long Term Care Facility and for submission to an appropriate journal.

Working with group of faculty members headed by Dr. Hersch to revise and retitle a book they hope to edit on Creativity and Occupational Therapy; awaiting approval of proposal to Slack, Inc. I have agreed to author a chapter.

A member of research team that is awaiting word from the American Journal of Occupational Therapy on article submitted in December on Aim 3 of our grant-funded study

Research team rewriting an article called The Research Challenges of Recruiting Older Adults Living in Long Term Care Environments to resubmit it to another journal

Continue working on an article describing the study of How Occupational Therapists Working with Clients with Life-Threatening Conditions Maintain their Hopefulness. Target journal is the American Journal of Occupational Therapy; working with students on reanalysis of data for article on Hope in Therapists Working with Persons with Traumatic Brain Injury before submitting it for publication

Other Research and Creative Achievements

These are briefly described: The first (1) and second (2) are ongoing; the third (3) is completed.

1. Research team described in project plan to submit application for research office funding to pilot a research project in spring 2011 to extend the Cultural Heritage intervention, and to form the basis for next grant submission
2. Third article completed and submitted to American Journal of Occupational Therapy.
3. Second article submitted and have not found an interested publisher
4. First article submitted and accepted for publication in Journal of Transcultural Nursing
5. 2010-completed grant funded research
6. 2007-present. Initially consultant to interdisciplinary team (nursing and occupational therapy) on grant proposal for Adaptation in Long-Term Care: Developing and Testing a Cultural Heritage Intervention.
