Minyu Sun, a graduate student in the College of Arts and Sciences at TWU with a 3.83 GPA, is pursuing a Master in Business Administration with a minor in government. She received a scholarship to TWU and completed her bachelor's degree with an emphasis in marketing in 2006. Following graduation in May 2008, she plans to work full time, and in a couple of years attend Southern Methodist University to obtain a Ph.D. in International Business, while continuing to work. She is also interested in taking some law classes during that time as she feels that business and law cannot be separated.

A native of Taiwan, Sun speaks Mandarin Chinese, Taiwanese, English and basic Japanese, and looks forward to using those skills, along with her education, to work in international business in a foreign country such as Japan, where she can gain another new life experience.

Sun works at Sanyo Energy U.S.A. for her internship and has been offered a full-time position after graduation. She has also held internships for the State of Texas in the Governor's Office Fellowship Program, economics development division; the International Hospitality Council of Austin, the contact agency for the U.S. Dept. of State; and the Greater Dallas Chamber in International Business Development. Sun worked as a student assistant in the international office on campus, and is currently a graduate assistant in the school of management, where she tutors students in finance and multicultural classes.

Sun is a member of The Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi, Gamma Beta Phi Honor & Service Society, and the National Society for Collegiate Scholars. She was also recognized as an Emerging Campus Leader 2006 and Outstanding International Student in 2006. She served as president of the Taiwan Student Association at TWU from 2006-07.

Sun resides in Denton.
