

Contributors to the 7th Volume

Zacharie Barber (Justice, Southern Style: The Kidnap and Murder of Mack Charles Parker) is a M.A. candidate at Midwestern State University. He is a member of the Tau Gamma Chapter, Phi Alpha Theta History Honor Society. He presented a version of this essay at the 2014 Northeast Texas Regional Phi Alpha Theta History Conference in Denton, Texas where it received a paper prize.

Alicia Berdan (Albert Gleizes: Cubism and Futurism) is a M.A. candidate in Art History at Texas Woman's University.

Ryan Bigney (Finding a Home: Hungarian Cistercian Refugee's Journey to Irving Texas and reviews of The Boys in the Boat and One Summer: America, 1927) is a M.A. candidate in History at Texas Woman's University. He is a member of the Eta Nu Chapter, Phi Alpha Theta History Honor Society. He presented a version of this essay at the 2014 Phi Alpha Theta Biennial National Convention in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Alexandra Cassar (The Bull and the Horse: Looking at Two of Guernica's Figures in the Context of Picasso's Art) is a M.A. candidate in Art History at Texas Woman's University.

Jane Hardman Flynn (Title IX: Bringing Academics Up to Par) is a M.A. candidate in history at Texas Woman's University. Ms. Flynn is a member of the Eta Nu Chapter, Phi Alpha Theta History Honor Society. She presented a version of this essay at the 2014 Northeast Texas Regional Phi Alpha Theta History Conference in Denton, Texas.

Rene Garofalo (From Dust to Man to Son of God: the Juxtaposition of the Philosophies of Giovanni Pico Della Mirandola and John Calvin Regarding the State of Man) is a M.A. candidate in history at Texas Woman's University. Ms. Garofalo is a member of the Eta Nu Chapter, Phi Alpha Theta History Honor Society. She presented a version of this essay at the 2014 Northeast Texas Regional Phi Alpha Theta History Conference in Denton, Texas.

Tomasz Granowski (African Jezebel: Myth Formation and Stereotypes of Black Female Promiscuity within the Context of the Colonial Caribbean Islands) is a M.A. candidate in History at Texas Woman's University. Mr. Granowski is a member of the Eta Nu Chapter, Phi Alpha Theta History Honor Society. He presented versions of this essay at the 2014 Phi Alpha Theta Biennial National Convention in Albuquerque, New Mexico and the 2014 Northeast Texas Regional Phi Alpha Theta History Conference in Denton, Texas.

MeLisa Haynes (An Old Ship and Sailor) is an undergraduate student at North Central Texas College. Her essay received the top prize in the 2014 Living History Essay Contest.

Carlos Sebastian Lopez ("It Was Like a Christmas Tree:" Inside Civil Defense during the Kennedy Assassination) is an undergraduate student at North Central Texas College. His essay received the top prize in the 2014 Living History Essay Contest.

Aiesha McFadden (Courtship at Seventeen: The Construction of Dissenting Feminine and Masculine Roles from 1955-1965) received her M.A. degree in History from Texas Woman's University in May 2014. She is a member, and two-term president, of the Eta Nu Chapter, Phi Alpha Theta History Honor Society. She presented versions of this essay at the 2014 Phi Alpha Theta Biennial National Convention in Albuquerque, New Mexico and the 2014 Northeast Texas Regional Phi Alpha Theta History Conference in Denton, Texas.

Alexis Milmine (Enlightened Sinner or Hopeless Heathen: Typology and the Role of Native Americans in Puritan Literature and Theology) received her M.A. degree in Government from Texas Woman's University in May 2014. She previously earned a M.A. in English. She is a member of the Eta Nu Chapter, Phi Alpha Theta History Honor Society. She presented a version of this essay at the 2014 Northeast Texas Regional Phi Alpha Theta History Conference in Denton, Texas.

Karen Milmine (The Coup Between Rabbit and Tseg'sgin': An Analysis of the Cherokee Perspective and the Role of Folklore During the Indian Removal Act and the Trail of Tears) received her M.A. degree in Government from Texas Woman's University in May 2014. She previously earned a M.A. in History. She is a member of the Eta Nu Chapter, Phi Alpha Theta History Honor Society. She presented a version of this essay at the 2014 Northeast Texas Regional Phi Alpha Theta History Conference in Denton, Texas.

Sean Peters (An Olive Branch in Appalachia: The Integration of the Banjo into 19th Century American Folk Music) is an undergraduate Music student at Texas Woman's University.

Amanda Roberts (Civil Defense in Holy Matrimony: Complications and Implications of Gender Roles in Ladies Home Journal, 1954-1960) is a M.A. candidate in History at Texas Woman's University. Ms. Roberts is a member, and current Vice President, of the Eta Nu Chapter, Phi Alpha Theta History Honor Society. She presented versions of this essay at the 2014 Phi Alpha Theta Biennial National Convention in Albuquerque, New Mexico and the 2014 Northeast Texas Regional Phi Alpha Theta History Conference in Denton, Texas.

Cameron Shields (Deep Ellum: Deep Texas Blues) is an undergraduate History major at McMurry University. A member of the Sigma Beta Chapter, Phi Alpha Theta History Honor Society, Cameron presented a version of this essay at the 2014 Northeast Texas Regional Phi Alpha Theta History Conference in Denton, Texas where it received a paper prize.

Aubri Thurmond (Romance and Writing: Interpreting the Lyric Domnas of Occitania) is a M.A. candidate in History at Texas Woman's University. Ms. Thurmond is a member, and current Secretary, of the Eta Nu Chapter, Phi Alpha Theta History Honor Society.

Kaitlyn Waynen (Re-writing the Social Studies Curriculum in Texas: Religion, Politics, & Eurocentrism in the World History Standards) is a M.A. candidate in History at Texas Woman's University. Ms. Waynen is a member, and current Historian, of the Eta Nu Chapter, Phi Alpha Theta History Honor Society. She presented this essay at the 2014 Northeast Texas Regional Phi Alpha Theta History Conference in Denton, Texas.