

TEXAS WOMAN'S UNIVERSITY

Center for Student Research

The purpose of the Center for Student Research is to promote an enhanced educational experience for students by providing opportunities for meaningful interaction between faculty and students through support, education, and programming in research and creative activities.

The Center will provide opportunities for students to participate in all phases of research and creative activity, facilitating faculty-student research partnerships and promoting research collaborations between graduate and undergraduate students.

As part of its effort to offer collaborative research and creative programs and services to students, the center will provide enhanced educational experiences for TWU graduate and undergraduate students in Denton, Dallas, and Houston.

We will provide opportunities for students to participate in all phases of research and creative activity, design through dissemination, facilitate research partnerships and collaboration between TWU students and faculty, enhance the students' knowledge of all phases of research, promote a national presence for TWU students, and ensure mutual benefit to both students and faculty members.

A variety of programs will be supported through the Center.
