These are examples of complete answers:

Did your Internship site offer you the opportunities you expected in helping you to accomplish your job objectives? Please explain.

“While I do feel as though I accomplished my objectives, it was in many unexpected ways that I learned what it takes to be a successful Court Appointed Advocate for battered women. For example, my #2 objective was “by mid-semester, be able to independently assist women before court in preparation of seeing their abuser and coaching them through the court process”. I met this goal but did not realize how much listening would be involved as the women processed their feelings and anxieties about seeing their abuser in court. I found many of the skills and theories learned in Introduction to Behavior Therapy and Psychology of Women very helpful. I used reflective listening and reframing to assist the clients. I accomplished all objectives using similar tools and guidance of my supervisor.”

Would you recommend this business/organization to other students from your field? Why or why not?

“Yes I would recommend this organization to anyone majoring in Psychology or Social Work who feels advocacy at this level is interesting. I would explain to potential Advocates that this work is stressful and there is limited potential for movement into a management role. If someone is easily traumatized by stories of abuse and socio-economic hardship, I would not recommend it.

My supervisor, Sally, was great and easy to work with. I would recommend Advocacy House to anyone looking in this profession.”
